

The Colonial Empire.

About once a year the Colonial question is dragged before an indifferent British public. This year the thankless task devolved upon Mr Macfie, who, in the House of Commons, on the 12th ultimo, moved for a Select Committee to consider how best to establish a cordial intercourse between all parts of the Empire. Dividing the colonies into three groups—the North American, Australasian, and South African—he illustrated their feelings of deep loyalty to the mother country, alluded to their complaints, dwelt upon their aspirations for a closer connexion on a footing of equality, giving copious extracts from newspapers, pamphlets, &c. Tracing the course of the various streams of emigration, he expressed regret that so large a number of emigrants had betaken themselves to the United States, when, by wise statesmanship, they might have been diverted to the British Colonies, and thus have added to the strength of the Empire. Much of this want of foresight he attributed to the frequent changes in the Colonial Office, and he expressed regret that the head of that department was not assisted by a competent advising Board. He concluded by recommending a conference of the principal colonies, and dwelt upon the importance of the grand scheme of confederation. Sir H Verney seconded Mr Macfie's motion, but does not appear to have thought it worth his while to make any remarks. Mr Knatchbull-Hugessen, Under Secretary, on behalf of the Colonial Office, spoke in glowing language of the Imperial value of the Colonies as monuments of the enterprise and greatness of England, and admitted that though it might be difficult to point to the pecuniary gain of each colony, the aggregate possession of them added to the material weight of the parent Empire in the councils of Europe. To Mr Macfie's motion, however, he objected. The Colonial Office—the present constitution and administration of which he warmly eulogized (which was extremely modest considering the position he him self occupies in it)—he claimed to be neither more or less than a standing committee, which was in intimate and constant communication with all the colonies, based on mutual goodwill and affection. If the time should come when a colony desired a separate existence it was the aim of the Colonial Office that the parting should be not without regret, but with a clear knowledge that no act of the Imperial authorities led to separation. As to the proposed conference, he said that an idea of the sort had often floated before his eyes, but it must be left to the distant future (Why?) for development. After a few wry remarks from several members, chiefly complimenting the Under Secretary upon the fervor with which he praised his own department, Mr Macfie withdrew his motion! Why? Alluding to it, the Times says 'Mr Macfie was sure of an echo to the terms of his motion from every heart in the kingdom, for it is a matter of course that we should all have before us the vision of a real Colonial Empire.' We hesitate not to tell the Times and Mr Knatchbull-Hugessen that so long as the parent Empire is content with enacting this annual colonial farce which appears to serve no more practical purpose than that of affording the Colonial Office an opportunity to sound its own praise, nothing more real than 'floating visions' of a Colonial Empire will ever be seen, unless that vision should haply be the ghost of departed Colonial Empire! There has been altogether too much of 'floating visions' and empty 'echoes' in connection with this subject. Great Britain must rise to the great duty of colonization, as a broad national scheme, if she would ever hope to see anything more substantial than 'floating visions' of Colonial Empire. There is no desire to withhold from the Imperial authorities whatever measure of credit may be due for the part they have taken in the formation of an Empire on this continent; but it must be remembered that as yet there is only the skeleton. It rests in great part with the mother country to supply the flesh—the muscle. And of that essential commodity she has millions going to waste—to worse than waste. This is her duty—the flood-tide of her opportunity, which if neglected can never recur!

The Map Business.

As a sort of setoff to the Fremont map on which the boundary line is traced through the Rosario channel, it is asserted that there is in the possession of the American authorities a British map on which the boundary line is traced through the Haro channel. Of course the former map can only have an important bearing upon the territorial dispute as being an official one, prepared and published under the authority of the U.S. Government. Unless this can be proved it will be of little or no value. There would not appear to be much difficulty in proving this. Colonel Fremont was acting in an official capacity, and if the result of his labors was published by authority, as it professes to have been, the fact will be easily proved by living men and existing documents. That once established, a tolerably strong case would be made out. Of course it would be very awkward if, on the other hand, a map could be produced which had been prepared at the direction of the British Government and bore the authoritative impress of that Government, and proved to be such. But, then, one of Arrowsmith's school-maps would not answer the purpose. Such maps may do very well to talk about, but they would scarcely be admitted as evidence in the case in hand.

NEWS! NEWS!

The "British Colonist" is the only newspaper published at Victoria that receives the latest Telegraphic Dispatches, as a comparison will prove. Late Telegrams appearing in any other paper are copied without credit 24 hours after they have appeared in the British Colonist. The circulation of the British Colonist being greater than that of any other paper, it offers the best medium to Advertisers.

Municipal Council.

TUESDAY June 21, 1871.

Council met at 8 p.m. Present—His Worship the Mayor and Councillors, McMillan, Heathorn, Spencer.

COMMUNICATIONS.

A communication from residents of Pioneer street complaining that a survey had been made of that street without the signers being consulted.

A communication was read by the Clerk from L. Lowenberg in reply to several notices from the Clerk in regard to sidewalk.

ACCOUNTS.

From F. W. Green for settling boundaries to corners of certain streets, $5.50. From W. R. Sayward for lumber, $216.62.

Referred to the Finance Committee for payment.

Also an account from Thomas Ball for hay and drayage, $7.50, which was ordered paid.

STREETS.

Communication from residents of Broughton street, offering to pay $60 towards grading and graveling that street.

Deferred till the end of August.

Councillor Carey drew attention of the Council to the fact that an error had been made in awarding the contract for grading and graveling Quebec street to Abel Beswick, as Mr. Nicholson was the lowest bidder for the amount of work offered to be done.

The Mayor instructed the Clerk to notify Mr. Beswick to suspend operations on said street until the matter was investigated by the Street Committee.

Adjourned.

THE DYING SPOUTER.—As the whale, when fatally struck, is said to spout and blow and lash the water harder than ever before in his life, so the Communist, feeling the pangs of approaching dissolution, has commenced to "toot his horn" and make a tremendous splash before getting ready to "pass in his checks." Consequently his leading column of yesterday is filled with the silliest stock-phrases about paying bills, largest circulation, biggest paper, greatest influence, unexampled prosperity, cheap advertising rates, leading journal, people's organ, and so forth, and so forth! This is all very pretty and sounds very well in strange ears; but we have only to refer to the Communist organ of the 20th December last to find him spouting and blowing in the same absurd style about wonderful prosperity and unexampled success, and yet within two weeks thereafter he reduced the amount of telegraphic news from 2000 words to 600 words per day, and sold one half of his prosperous, leading, influential, paying journal to a local Capitalist for the mucificent sum of $1500!!! That, of course, was an evidence of bighted prosperity and stability—but it is the same evidence that the whale gives when about to yield up his blubber. Speaking of circulation, we are credibly informed the Standard is now reduced to two steady readers. They are the editor and his professor. The latter is nearly crazed by the amount of nonsense and twaddle he is paid (?) to wade through; and as for the editor—well, the shingles of his mental roof have been loose and flapping for many days.

OBSEQUIOUSNESS.—Admiral Winslow of the U.S. Navy has been visiting the various towns on Puget Sound and has everywhere met with that respectful attention to which his position and distinguished services entitle him. His movements are minutely chronicled in the local newspapers, even to a quiet walk through town or attendance upon Divine Service. With all this we have not the least desire, even had we the right, to find fault; but our Republican neighbors must excuse us if we take the present occasion to remind them of their proneness to regard obsequiousness, if we may be permitted to so call it, as something peculiar to a monarchical form of Government. In our country the movements of an Admiral are not commonly chronicled in the public press with minuteness to which we have referred.

THE OODEN POINT LAND.—Before the Chief Justice in Chambers on Monday, Mr. McCrae, instructed by Mr. Johnson, moved to require the Acting Attorney General to make affidavit as to all documents in his possession relating to the land occupied by Dr. Trimble. The Chief Justice said the Crown ought to procure everything bearing upon the case, but he did not think he had the power to compel the affidavit, unless, however, the Acting Attorney General did produce all documents bearing upon the case, the proceedings would be stayed until full discovery was given and the documents produced.

GUBERNATORIAL MOVEMENTS.—Governor Musgrave will leave on or pretty close on the 28th proximo for home. H. M. S. Sparrowhawk has been placed at the Governor's disposal and will carry His Excellency and family to San Francisco, where they will take the rail for the Eastern side. It is highly probable that the Sparrowhawk, on her return, will bring the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, should he not have arrived before. It will be seen by this that the Proclamation of Union will be made by Governor Musgrave.

Sparrowhawk has been placed at the Governor's disposal and will carry His Excellency and family to San Francisco, where they will take the rail for the Eastern side. It is highly probable that the Sparrowhawk, on her return, will bring the Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia, should he not have arrived before. It will be seen by this that the Proclamation of Union will be made by Governor Musgrave.

The Chief Justice said the Crown ought to procure everything bearing upon the case, but he did not think he had the power to compel the affidavit, unless, however, the Acting Attorney General did produce all documents bearing upon the case, the proceedings would be stayed until full discovery was given and the documents produced.
